Patient and Public Involvement

Who is it for? Why is it there? How does it work?

Many patients and public members work with research professionals and clinicians (e.g. doctors and nurses) and get actively involved in the different stages of research. There is a wide range of activities that patient and public members may get involved in, with opportunity to choose what interests them.

Come and join us for an informal event at the University of Liverpool's Cancer Research UK Centre to find out more and how you can get involved in the region's cancer research, trials, treatment and support services.

Wednesday 16th March 2-4pm

2pm - Emma Squibb, Cancer Research UK - Introduction to the Centre, outreach activities and how members of the public can help communicate the scientific cancer research success at Liverpool to the population of Merseyside.

2.15pm - Gill Hamblin, Royal Liverpool and Broadgreen University Hospital - Cancer services at the Royal and how members of the public can get involved including our Buddy System.

2.35pm - Tea/Coffee

2.50pm - Dr Seema Chauhan, Cancer Trials Unit - Trial Protocols.

3.10pm - Macmillan Cancer Support - Outline of volunteer services for cancer support in the region.

3.30pm - Laboratory Tour - See cancer researchers at work.

3.45pm - Tea/Coffee and chat with existing patient and public representatives.

Open to all members of the public, carers, voluntary and community organisations, healthcare and local authority workers within Merseyside and Cheshire.
